Types of Pistachio Kernels at Nazari Novel Nuts

Kaal (Green) Kernel

Due to its unripe state and light green color, the Kaal pistachio kernel has a milder taste and less sweetness compared to fully ripe pistachios. This kernel is usually used in desserts, salads, and as a decorative ingredient in various dishes.

Fandoghi Kernel

The Fandoghi pistachio kernel, smaller in size with a mild and sweet flavor, is a popular choice for use in everyday sweets and nut mixes. Known for its reasonable price and creamy texture, it is considered a delicious and economical snack option.

Ahmad Aghaei Kernel

Due to its large size and rich, sweet flavor, the Ahmad Aghaei pistachio kernel is an excellent choice for use in luxurious desserts and premium nut mixes. With its creamy texture and attractive appearance, this kernel is recognized as one of the best options in the pistachio market.

Ghazvini Kernel

The Ghazvini pistachio kernel, medium in size with a mild and pleasant taste, is popular due to its good quality and reasonable price. This kernel is widely used in preparing mixed nuts, sweets, and desserts.

The table below shows the available grades of these pistachio kernels, and customers can order customized products according to their preferences and needs. (TABLE 2: KERNEL GRADING)

Types of Iranian Pistachios at Nazari Novel Nuts

Ahmad Aghaei

One of the most popular and sought-after Iranian pistachios, known for its long and slender shape, excellent taste, and delightful aroma. This type is commonly used in pastries and mixed nuts and is especially valued for its beautiful appearance and large kernel.

Akbari

A luxurious and expensive type of Iranian pistachio, famous for its large size, elongated shape, exceptional taste, and high quality. This pistachio is mainly used for export and in premium nut mixes and gourmet food products.

Fandoghi

A smaller-sized pistachio with a thinner shell, known for its mild and sweet flavor. Fandoghi pistachios are often used in confectionery and desserts and are widely consumed due to their more affordable price.

Kalleghuchi

Recognized for its large, round, and meaty kernels, Kalleghuchi pistachios are among the most popular Iranian pistachios. They are widely used in premium nut mixes and gourmet food products due to their pleasant taste and attractive appearance.

Badami

With its elongated shape and almond-like appearance, Badami pistachios are known for their mild and sweet flavor. They are a suitable choice for snacking and use in pastries and desserts.

The Nazari Business Group (NBG) first began cultivating and trading pistachios around 1950. This family business, now spanning four generations, has continually improved the quality of its products and significantly increased production volume and product diversity. Despite adding other products such as olives, jujube, blueberries, turmeric, and dates, pistachios remain the most important product of the group.

Nazari Business Group has always aimed to uphold the values of previous generations, such as customer satisfaction and accountability to all individuals and legal entities involved in the trade process, while also adapting to the requirements of modern economic activities. To ensure quality management and control over the production and processing of pistachios, the company has obtained ISO certification and demonstrated its commitment to consumer health and environmental protection by receiving the BIO-INSPECTA certification.

Today, the benefits of consuming pistachios are well known. Besides being a snack, pistachios are used in pastry making, ice cream production, food decoration, oil production, and various other food products such as desserts and salads. Pistachios are rich in antioxidants, vitamins B6 and E, and fiber, which help improve heart health, lower cholesterol, enhance digestive function, and manage weight. Minerals like magnesium, phosphorus, and potassium in pistachios contribute to bone health, blood pressure regulation, and muscle and nerve function. Pistachios also contain healthy fats and plant proteins, beneficial for overall health. Consuming pistachios can help control blood sugar levels and reduce inflammation in the body. Iranian pistachios are globally recognized for their unique taste and aroma, high variety, traditional cultivation methods, thin shell, and higher nutritional content, making them one of the highest-quality types of pistachios in the world.

At NBG, pistachios are cultivated and maintained with minimal chemicals in the gardens and are harvested with hygienic practices. After drying, the pistachios are stored in the Nazari Group's warehouses and then sorted and packaged according to customer needs. This process uses SORTER, MEYER, conveyor belts, and industrial silos to enhance speed and accuracy. Customers place their orders with the sales department, review samples, and confirm their purchase after inspecting the product and ensuring it matches their order. The quality and processing experts at Nazari Novel Nuts continuously monitor and guarantee the uniformity and quality of the pistachios. Any discrepancies or issues can be addressed by the business experts, as the Nazari Group is committed to customer satisfaction—a commitment that doesn't end with the sale.
